Abstract:

The Madia's Reform about performance evaluation started a new season for the Italian Ministries in this topic, boosted by the Guidelines prepared by the "Commissione Tecnica per la Performance" and issued by the "Dipartimento della Funzione Pubblica". The research has two main goals: 1) the former is to measure the quality of the performance plans for the years 2018-2020 in 6 experimental Ministries, enabling a comparison with the ones adopted in the years 2017-2019; the latter 2) is to investigate the enabling conditions for their useful adoption in the decision-making processes from the public management perspective. Briefly, the paper investigates whether a change from a performance bureaucratic approach to a useful performance management approach happened in the 6 Experimental Ministries regarding 2017-2019 and 2018-2020 performance plans. The work aims to answer the two questions by adopting an "action research" approach in a multiple case study research.
